

School receives $320K gift for Fifth Avenue expansion

In efforts to further the growth and expansion of Harlem Academy, a Harlem-based independent school for underprivileged children, Tahl Propp Equities, one of Harlem's leading owner/developers, has donated $320,000 to the Academy following the renewal and expansion of its space at Fifth Avenue Place.

Fifth Avenue Place is a two-building, 215,000 s/f apartment/retail complex located on two full block fronts between 111th and 112th streets on both sides of Fifth Avenue, just above Central Park.

"We are delighted to invest in the continued growth of Harlem Academy," said Rodney Propp, chairman of Tahl Propp. "The Academy is an invaluable resource for the community and we are committed to its future success."

An institution dedicated to helping each student reach his or her academic potential, the Academy currently offers classes for kindergarteners through the third grade. But it hopes to expand its premises in order to accommodate students through the fifth grade. ■
